SUNDAY IN ROANOKE.

No cigars, cigarettes, tobacco, fruit, confections, toilet articles or other merchandise were sold in Roanoke yesterday. One cigar stand gave away cigars to all its patrons. Only drugs and newspapers were permitted to be sold.

The police halted all milk wagons, dray wagons, ice cream wagons, and street hacks, and took the names of the drivers and owners of the vehicles. The numbers of all street cars and the names of the motormen and conductors running them were recorded, and the numbers of freight trains running through the city, not hauling perishable matter, were noted.

The anti-spitting and all other ordinances were rigidly enforced, and shoe-shining places were closed. Chief of Police Dyer stated last night that more than fifty women of ill repute had left the city, most of them leaving on the late trains Saturday night. This was in response to a notice that on and after today the law governing them would be strictly enforced.

Notices were served on about 100 clerks who have signs across the sidewalk that they must take them down.

KILLED IN CHURCH.

Daring divine service yesterday at an ancient church at Naix, near Bion, Switzerland, suddenly collapsed, burying the worshippers in the ruins. Practically all the members of the congregation were killed or injured. A wild panic followed, those who escaped rushing through the fields, shouting that an earthquake had overtaken the village. Other villagers joined in the outcry, and with difficulty calmed. After an hour's exertions the fire company of the place extricated 40 corpses, but it is believed that there are still others under the timbers. Sixty persons were badly injured. The collapse of the church was caused by the time-worn pillars in the underground crypt giving way.

Disadvantages of a Clock.

"There used to be a big clock above that door," said the woman shopper. "What has become of it?" "We took it down," the clerk replied, "because it scared away customers too long before closing time. When that clock was in plain view women who maybe had an appointment or wished to catch a train kept an eye on it, and when they found it was getting late they left the store with their shopping only half done. With the clock out of the way, they are not reminded so constantly of the passing time, and so they stay till they have bought what they want, no matter how long it takes."—New York Press.

Considerate.

The young Baltimore couple, recently united in matrimony, were going over their wedding presents just after their return from their honeymoon.

"How about that check for $300 we were told your Uncle Tom had promised?" asked the husband. "I haven't seen anything of it, Marie?" "Well," ventured the young wife, "perhaps Uncle Tom learned that your father had already given us a check for that amount and didn't wish us to have duplicate presents."—Harper's Weekly.

Worse Than Lamentation.

Ellison—Hello, dear boy! You look very sad this morning. What's the trouble?

Green—I've just undergone a most annoying operation.

Ellison—What was it?

Green—I had my allowance cut off.—London Tit-Bits.

New.

"I want you," said the stage manager, "to play the part of a banker, and I want you to try to play it with a touch of originality."

"All right," responded Yorick Haman. "I'll leave off the mutton chop whiskers."—Kansas City Journal.

The Difficulty.

"Could you bring yourself to live in a flat on 44th street?"

"I could, Harold," answered the pampere yet unspoiled darling. "But I do not know just how it would suit my French maid."—London Tatler.

The Real Question.

"I don't know where he gets his, and I don't care. What I am interested in is knowing just how he gets mine."—Nashville American.
